David is a London based British voiceover artist born and raised in the UK. He possesses a naturally deep resonant vocal tone, immediately engaging, inviting and reassuring.

Described by friends, family, professional colleagues and patients as “calm”, “reassuring”, “intelligent” and “trustworthy”, these qualities are manifest in his voiceovers, which help brands and businesses across the world connect with their audience.

David has a medical background having trained in London, and practices as a GP and Urgent Care Practitioner.

As a keen chorister, he has also sung in classical and gospel choirs since his early teens from which he's developed an acute appreciation of vocal tempo, texture, volume, intonation, saturation and control, all equally pertinent to the voiceover industry.

David continues to nourish this passion as a currently active member of a London Gospel choir.

Having spent some time in Africa, The Middle East and Europe, David's exposure to different cultures and good command of several languages allows him to easily forge and nurture connections across the globe.

David's diverse background and life experiences bring an intriguing dimension to the voiceover industry, and with dedication, professionalism and a sprinkle of good humour along the way he will deliver your requirements to full satisfaction.

David works from his home studio in London ensuring a prompt turnaround time.
